What follows is an adapted excerpt from Pius Parsch’s seminal reflections on the Liturgy of the Church which are exclusively collected at Biretta Books for the first time in half a century. Make your way downstairs to buy your copy of the first volume which guides you from Advent through Christmastide.

Anne, Child of Grace

The mother of the Blessed Virgin Mary” is the official title which the liturgy bestows on Saint Anne; this too is her greatest claim to greatness. Accordingly, the feast is not primarily one in honor of a saint but one commemorating the work of redemption, a feast in honor of Our Lord Jesus Christ.

Anne, the grandmother of Our Lord according to the flesh! Yet Sacred Scripture makes no mention of her, does not even give her name. The apocryphal Proto-evangel of James is the earliest source for the story of the pious and just couple, Joachim and Anne. One great sorrow weighed heavily: they were denied the blessing of children, although they had petitioned God incessantly for years.

An answer came in the message of an angel: “Thy prayer is heard, Joachim. A daughter shall be born to thee and thou shalt give her the name Mary; she shall be dedicated to the Lord from childhood and be filled with the Holy Spirit.” At the same hour Anne was granted a similar vision. Both hurried to the temple to thank God, and, beaming with joy, entered the golden portals of the sanctuary. What kernel of truth lies at the bottom of this legend we do not know; nevertheless, it teaches that great men must mature in the school of suffering and that everyone who shares in the work of redemption must be a bearer of the Cross.

Even if we knew nothing about Anne, could we picture the mother of Mary, the grandmother of Christ other than as a noble, courageous, saintly woman? The Lesson describes the “good wife” who provides for her family, for her servants, who helps the poor, serves her husband. The Gospel reveals the source and the mystery of Anne’s greatness; she found the treasure, the love of God. To insure possession of it she gives all, places all her strength in its service.

A final thought. Let us think of our grandmother today with gratitude. See this good and kind woman sitting in her humble room with the rosary in her hand, praying for her children and grandchildren. Next to God we owe our faith principally to our mothers and grandmothers. To them our gratitude.

Because no historical data on St. Anne has come down to us, the Church approaches and presents her as the model housewife. While listening to the Epistle, we think of Anne as the perfect mother and wife. All the tasks and duties falling to the mother in a home she performed well and ably. From early morning till on into the night she is busy. Her hours of sleep are shortest. Everyone is the object of her solicitude—her husband, her children, domestics; nor does she neglect the poor who ask for her aid. Into her heart flow the troubles and needs of all about her. Truly she is a mother to all.

“Good Saint Anne”

Saint Anne, the mother of the Blessed Virgin Mary, has always been and continues to be a special patroness of our parish. In fact, early records show that our parish once used the name “St. Anne—St. John Cantius Parish.” A beautiful oil painting of St. Anne holds a prominent place above the High Altar in our church. St. John Cantius himself was a devotee of St. Anne, and served as a priest in St. Anne’s Church in Kraków where his tomb and relics have been enshrined since his death in 1473.

Each year, around the feast of St. Anne, July 26th, we celebrate the St. Anne Triduum—three days dedicated to her intercession. The Canons Regular have a chapel in Michigan dedicated to her patronage where public Masses and devotions are held.

St. Anne Triduum of Masses will be offered for your intentions at:
